PRESS RELEASE

Euregio Plus SGR's FIA Euregio⁺ PMI Fund invests in energy.dis, supporting growth in the renewable energy market

Bolzano-Bressanone, 30 October 2026 – Euregio Plus SGR S.p.A. is investing via the alternative investment fund FIA Euregio⁺ PMI in energy.dis S.r.l., a Bressanone-based company operating in the Italian electricity market.

As part of the transaction, the fund is subscribing to a minibond of EUR 3 million. The funds will support the further growth of the group, which specialises in the development, design and construction of photovoltaic and wind power plants.

Founded in 2001, energy.dis is the marketing platform of the psaier.energies group. The company markets the energy generated and manages its access to the regulated energy markets. energy.dis is directly active in electricity marketing, energy trading and electricity supply, working with the Italian energy market operator GME and with Terna on forecasting, balancing energy and collateral management.

As part of the psaier.energies group, which operates along the entire renewable energy value chain, energy.dis benefits from greater continuity of supply and from coordinated management of energy volumes and key market risks. Its capital-light business model also allows the company to adapt its sales and trading strategies flexibly and quickly to developments in the energy market.

In recent years, energy.dis has further strengthened its market position and steadily expanded its ability to generate margins through the purchase, sale and optimisation of energy flows.

“Issuing this minibond is a strategically important step for us and marks the start of a new phase in our growth,” says Eugen Psaier, CEO of energy.dis S.r.l. “We made a deliberate choice to pursue structured financing together with an institutional investor that is firmly rooted in our region and stands for expertise and reliability: Euregio Plus SGR. For us, this transaction goes far beyond financing alone. It is an important first step towards the capital market, opens up new prospects for working with institutional investors and lays the foundation for long-term, stable partnerships. Our shared goal is to make a tangible contribution to the energy transition and to the expansion of renewable energy sources."

Psaier adds: "My sincere thanks go to the entire Euregio Plus SGR team for their professional and constructive cooperation, and to our finance team led by Martin Lösch, Head of Finance of the group and responsible for Accounting & Taxation, and Matteo Sciolla, Head of Corporate Finance and responsible for the financing activities of the psaier.energies group. Their commitment, expertise and decisive contribution were key to structuring and successfully closing the transaction."

"energy.dis is a company with strong roots in the region, operating in a strategically important area of the energy transition," says Sergio Lovecchio, Managing Director of Euregio Plus SGR. "With this investment, we want to support energy.dis on its continued growth path while strengthening a regional value chain that links renewable energy generation, plant operation and the marketing of the energy produced on the energy markets. The investment underlines the mission of the FIA Euregio⁺ PMI Fund: to support regional companies with solid development and growth projects, thereby fostering their competitiveness, capacity for innovation and sustainable development."
